Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Monday 01 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Overnight rain turning to snow, bringing a risk of ice.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry and cloudy for most of the evening and night. During the early hours, rain will spread across the region from the southwest, likely turning to snow away from coasts and bringing several centimetres of snow on the hills. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Tuesday:
Further rain and snow likely. Snow will turn back to rain later at lower levels and over the southern Pennines as it turns milder. Expect travel disruption on higher routes. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Persistent rain on Wednesday, possibly turning to snow in Cumbria. Further outbreaks of rain mixed with dry intervals on Thursday and Friday, with possible hill snow on Thursday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.